

UTAH PRODUCTS ARE PROTECTED

Tariff Revision Shows Fair Treatment of This State Generally.

AN EFFICIENT DELEGATION

SENATOR SMOOT HAD MINUTE DETAILS WELL MASTERED.

Washington, Aug. 16.—No state in the Union had a more efficient delegation in Congress to protect its interests during the revision of the tariff than had Utah. That its representatives did effective work is shown by the favorable duties that were placed upon the principal products of the state. Pennsylvania, with her two senators and thirty-two representatives, her great influence through wealth and prestige, fared far worse than Utah. Her iron and steel, her glass, her coal and her oil, all were obliged to stand sweeping reductions in tariff rates, so radical in some instances that it is predicted that her industries will be hard hit. But Utah's products came through practically untouched and carrying rates which it is generally conceded will provide ample protection to the producers of that state.

This result is due almost entirely to the effective work of Senators Smoot and Sutherland and Representative Howell. Through their intelligent and tireless efforts the congress was induced to fix these rates and President Taft stood for them. The Utah delegation made itself felt in this legislation and when the extraordinary session adjourned, had the satisfaction of knowing that their constituents had been well cared for.

Senate Made No Mistake.

The work of this extra session gave Senator Smoot the opportunity to demonstrate that the Senate had made no mistake when it had voted him the right to a seat in that body. After passing triumphantly through the stormy period when his seat was contested and the flood gates of libel and venom were opened against him, Mr. Smoot took up his duties as a senator and modestly, but thoroughly, carried them out. His friends were confident that the opportunity for him to prove his mettle would come and it did come with the revision of the tariff.

Long before the close of the second session of the Sixtieth Congress, Chairman Aldrich had Senator Smoot in mind for a place on the finance committee and the latter had proved his ability in the copyright, dry farm, and currency legislation. Senator Aldrich was not deceived in his selection of Reed Smoot as a member of his finance committee. From the very first committee meeting it was known that Senator Smoot would be one of the Senate leaders in the tariff discussion. His familiarity with the various schedules and with the great industries of the country astounded everybody. Prominent men who appeared before the committee reported that that senator had a wider grasp of the then pending questions than any other member of the committee, with the possible exception of Senator Aldrich himself. The committee designated Senator Smoot to take charge of the woolen, lead, zinc, sugar and cotton schedules, both in framing them and in defending them upon the floor of the Senate. Not only did he have a comprehensive knowledge of these subjects, but also of every schedule and item in the bill. He enjoyed the distinction of being rated by his colleagues as an authority on tariff matters.

Senators who had formerly opposed Senator Smoot and denied him the right to a seat in the United States Senate, felt that their opposition had been ill advised, and they came to Senator Smoot for his support and assistance on various tariff questions. They recognized in him a power that entered largely into the final adjustment of the tariff bill. He gained the reputation of being the hardest worker in Congress and the best equipped in tariff debate. His notes and records on the tariff duties, importations and general information became known throughout the Capitol. Senators and Representatives often frequented his office to avail themselves of the information Senator Smoot had collected, prepared and filed, systematically and exhaustively. Press agents also made diligent use of the Senator's files and records.

Great Understanding of Schedules.

What appeared most remarkable about Senator Smoot was his absolute understanding and his detailed information on every schedule. No man in Congress held more conferences and had more audiences with representatives of the great American industries than did Senator Smoot; every industry beseeched him for a hearing, for they all appreciated his potent influence in the final analysis of the bill. It was certainly well for the West that Senator

Smoot was on the committee on finance, for he was most eminently successful in protecting every Western interest. As Champ Clark expressed it, "Senator Reed Smoot made a national reputation during the consideration of the Payne-Aldrich bill." In fact, he suggested that the bill really should be known as the "Reed Smoot" bill.

The influence of Senator Sutherland during the first session of the Sixty-first Congress have added to his influence at Washington is beyond question. He was chosen as a member of the committee on committees, whose duty it is to make up the standing and select committees of the Senate, and in this connection was able to take an important part in the committee assignments. He was given a place on the judiciary committee, and in this capacity he will be able to exercise considerable influence in shaping matters of legislation which will go to that committee. His ability as a lawyer is well recognized in the Senate, and he is expected to add to the reputation he holds among his colleagues for legal acumen and statesmanship.

Sutherland is Able Debater. He took a prominent part in the debate on the tariff bill and again demonstrated his ability as a debater. He stood for the protective system all through the session, and declared himself in favor of a duty that is too high, rather than one that is too low to afford protection to the American producer and manufacturer against foreign competition, and he declared himself in favor of other states the same as he did for the products of his own state. The products of Utah—lead, sugar and wool—have been well taken care of in the bill, and Senator Sutherland has done his share in bringing about this result.

Senator Sutherland is chairman of the committee on Cuban relations, and is a member of the joint committee on revision of laws, which has done important work during the last two sessions of Congress; is a member of Indian affairs, geological survey, irrigation and mines and mining, in the last two of which he is able to be of great service to the West in legislation affecting the great reclamation projects and the mining industry.

During the debate on the tariff bill, Senator Sutherland raised a constitutional question which has attracted much attention. Denying the assertion of Senator Stone of Missouri that the Congress has no authority under the constitution to enact a protective tariff law, Mr. Sutherland held that the federal government possesses sovereign powers in the dealings with other nations which enable it to levy prohibitive tariffs if advisable. He declared that the United States possesses not only the right to protect its industries, but also sovereign powers of a nation in its dealings with other nations, and these latter powers allow it to lay such customs duties as it sees fit for the protection of American industries or even to prohibit the importation of goods. This doctrine was a direct and powerful contradiction of the old Democratic argument that Congress has no right to impose duties except for the sole purpose of raising revenues.

Representative Guards Interests.

In the House of Representatives the interests of Utah were carefully guarded by Representative Howell. Always on duty, constantly alert, he worked and voted for the protective rates for Utah products that eventually became a part of the law. No Western member of the House worked harder or more intelligently to bring about these results, and not only did Mr. Howell speak for adequate protection, but he did effective work with the ways and means committee and among his colleagues, explaining conditions and carrying on the defense of the interests of the state. Mr. Howell enjoys the confidence of Speaker Cannon and the other leaders of the House, and the speaker thought so well of the Utah member that in making up the list of members for this Congress he placed Mr. Howell on the important committee on agriculture. He also is a member of two other important committees, elections No. 2, and mines and mining.

John Scheller Says Letters to His Wife Were Returned—Charges

Against Postmaster.

Complaining that the postmaster of his home town is in love with his wife, and because of his advantageous position, returns all letters he writes to her, marking them with the initials "J. Scheller," the postmaster attempted to buy a gun for the purpose of killing himself yesterday morning. His peculiar actions caused a Commercial street newspaper to inform the police of a postmaster of a little village in Oregon.

Scheller says he left his wife two months ago because she refused to live with him. He declares that every letter written to his wife has been returned unopened and he charges the postmaster with keeping the letters. The latter was Scheller's rival for Mrs. Scheller's affection, according to the man.

JOIN HANDS TO BOOST BIG FAIR

Salt Lake Manufacturers to Help Make Ogden Exposition a Success.

Dan S. Collett, secretary of the Utah Manufacturers' association, will today journey to Ogden and fire the first shot in a campaign to promote a better and more brotherly feeling between the manufacturers and merchants of that city and of Salt Lake. The intention is to join hands with the Ogden people in making the Four-State exposition in Ogden a huge success.

Ogden is said to have been elighted in former years on the occasion of fairs held in that city, and but few manufacturers of this city have had exhibits there. Already fifteen local manufacturers have signified their desire to make exhibits at the Four-State fair. The names of these firms were submitted to William Glasmann, manager of the fair, and a reply has been received from him to the effect that, while he could not promise them the space desired, he would give them as much as possible.

By assisting in making the Ogden fair a success, it is thought that a feeling of harmony will be promoted between the two largest cities of the state.

MANY MINERS TO JOIN PARADE

Labor Day Celebration Will Attract Big Delegations From Nearby Camps.

Reports were received last night by the executive committee on Labor day celebration of the Federation of Labor, promising that every local union of the Western Federation of Miners in Utah will be represented at the celebration in Salt Lake. These reports were from Park City, Bingham, Eureka, Mercur and Mammoth and each camp promises a big delegation.

In order to insure the success of the celebration the local committee will call on the railroads this week and endeavor to procure special excursion rates from all Utah points for the day. R. E. Currie, chairman of the Labor day committee, said that the miners' delegates were all that remained of importance, and if good rates are made the success of the celebration will be assured.

The committee decided on the route of the parade for Labor day, which will form in State and Fourth South streets at the Federation of Labor hall. It will move west to Main street and then north to the Pioneer monument. Passing around the monument, the column will proceed through Main street south to the Salt Palace, where the celebration will be held. The reviewing stand will be erected at Ninth South and Main streets.

The general committee and the committee on sports will meet at the Salt Palace grounds.

MINNESOTA VETERAN HAS BEEN DISCOVERED

The police have been informed by letter that Albert Swift, the aged Minnesota veteran who disappeared from his stopping place in this city last Thursday noon, is still in the city. The letter was from Nightwatchman George Neal of Brigham City, and contained nothing but the statement that he had seen the veteran. The latter's sudden departure, leaving some of his belongings behind him, is still unexplained.

CONFLICTING DUTES OF TWO BIG CONVENTIONS

Dry Farm Congress May Change to November—Governor Spry Goes to St. Louis.

Because of a conflict in dates, Governor William Spry has not yet announced the men who will represent this state at the Trans-Mississippi Dry Farm congress, to be held at Denver, Oct. 26, 27 and 28. This convention includes several of the days of the Lakes-to-the-Gulf convention, which will be attended by nearly every governor of the United States.

A telegram was received from Governor Edwin L. Norris of Montana yesterday by Governor Spry, in which it was practically assured that the convention dates for the Dry Farm congress will be either Oct. 19, 20 and 21 or Nov. 9 and 10. Governor Norris is president of the congress and is now working to effect the change. Governor Spry will attend the Lakes-to-the-Gulf convention. He will arrive in St. Louis on the night of Oct. 24 and will start with President Taft, members of both houses of congress, nearly every governor and a number of the most prominent men of the nation on a memorable trip down the Mississippi to New Orleans, where the real convention will be held, lasting until Oct. 29.

HOW TO GROW FAT

A Lazy Stomach the Cause of Thinness, Nine Times in Ten.

If you are thin or lean, have scrawny arms and neck, you can't grow fat unless your food properly digests. People take on flesh in proportion to the nutritious matter which the organs of digestion absorb and pass into the blood.

Just as long as the nutritious matter passes along without being absorbed, just so long will you remain thin. Perhaps your stomach, bowels and liver need a tonic. If your digestion is not perfect, Mi-o-na tablets will put it right at once.

Mi-o-na will cure indigestion and very conceivable ailment of the stomach promptly. It cures by building and oning up and not by encouraging a tired stomach to continue its shiftless and health destroying habits. It promptly drives away sour stomach, belching of gas, heaviness after eating.

F. C. Schramm sells Mi-o-na for 50 cents a large box, and guarantees it to cure indigestion, sea and car sickness, vomiting of pregnancy and all stomach diseases and distress, or money back.

Mi-o-na is sold by leading druggists.

Suffering Women!

HERE IS RELIEF
The days of suffering and anguish to thousands of women who are troubled with various female complaints are over. Chiropractic, the wonderful new science, is curing hundreds of women each month and making them strong and healthy. It is not a treatment of medicine; neither are surgical operations needed. It is simply a natural system of building up weakened nerves and strengthening parts of the body which are affected. All forms of female trouble, rheumatism, kidney, liver and stomach trouble, paralysis, epilepsy and many other disorders have been completely cured by Chiropractic in so many cases that there is no question of its effectiveness, even in most obstinate cases. Troubles of long standing, even chronic in their nature, have been cured in thousands of cases by simple treatments of Chiropractic, and the cures in each instance have been permanent.

Mrs. Pickard has, since establishing her office in Salt Lake, made a great many cures, and is glad to refer prospective patients to those who have been cured and who know that Chiropractic is all that it has been claimed to be. Mrs. Pickard meets persons who are seeking information privately and makes examinations without charge.

With such an opportunity placed before them it is really astonishing to see how many women go on suffering day after day simply because they are not willing to go to a little trouble to investigate. In this case it is simply a woman talking to a woman who knows what the difficulties are and who also knows how to overcome them. To all ladies who are troubled in any way, Mrs. Pickard extends an invitation to meet her and allow her to explain the principles whether a treatment is wanted or not. Today is the time. Tomorrow may be too late.
